Committing to the Process

Committing to the process is essential to unlocking your full potential. If you don't commit to the process, nothing will happen. You won't be able to fully start your journey. It's okay to be full of good intentions, but you also need to be able to have a clear idea of how to get where you want to go. Shifting from ideas to actions can be hard. It's easy to daydream about starting something new, but it's a totally other thing to really put those things into action.

Committing to the process means not procrastinating. Procrastination will only lead you to failure and the inability to attract all the desires you want and need. Struggling to see something through is hard for everyone, so don't get discouraged if you are struggling to make your actions real. Just try to stay on track and let of the things you can't control.

If there are some things in your life that you can't control that are keeping you unmotivated, just try to let them go. Trying to hang onto them will cause the process to last much longer than it needs to. One easy way to commit to the process is to set goals. Without goals, you won't be able to see the progress you are making. If you have clearly defined goals, you can track your progress and know you are doing the best you can. Don't just write down the goals, write down how you achieve them. Without clear instructions to follow, you might continue to struggle with not being able to get on track.
